[illegible] Believed Majority Will Favor Seating Peabody While the Minority Will Assert Adams' Right to Governorship.

[illegible]

Special to the Gazette.

DENVER, Feb. 27.—It is [illegible] on good authority that the majority report of the joint legislative committee will favor the seating of former Governor James H. Peabody, [illegible] It is believed, however, the leaders of the two Republican factions will sign the Democratic report, the majority and minority reports will be signed by the committee and [illegible] members.

Will Take Much Time.

A few days ago it was thought that the committee would not take the full time allowed in which to submit its report or reports to the joint assembly. It is now apparent that the full time will be taken and that the report will not be made until 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon which is the time that was set.

The joint committee will be unable to formulate its report or reports, it is said, before Wednesday night in order that the members of the committee may each read the briefs of the committees in full. Copies of said briefs were distributed at the meeting of the committee this afternoon. Immediately after that the committee without transacting any other business, adjourned until 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. At this time it is believed that it will get down to work on the report to be made to the joint assembly.

Attorneys Preparing Report.

The attorneys for Adams and Peabody are engaged in preparing reports for the use of the committee, although these reports will not necessarily be used. One or both of them may be taken as a basis for forming the committee's report, or it may be that the reports of the attorneys will be amended or changed if necessary and submitted to the joint assembly in that form.

At today's session of the committee there was a caucus of the Republican members at which the proposition to fix the time of arguments of attorneys before the joint assembly was discussed at some length. Some of the members are in favor of allowing but a few hours for these arguments while others believe that a week or ten days should be granted. No definite decision was reached, and the members of the committee will be given more time to think the proposition over.

Kansas Bonds for State Oil Refinery to Be Issued in Ten Days.

TOPEKA, Kas., Feb. 27.—It was decided today that the bonds for the state oil refinery will be issued within ten days. As soon as they are sold, work on the refinery will begin at once. Warden Jewett, of the state penitentiary, will select a site for the refinery and branch penitentiary at Peru this week. The people of Peru will pay for it. Convict labor and convict-made brick will be used in the building.

Miss Ida M. Tarbell, the magazine writer, will be here this week. She will thoroughly investigate the Kansas oil fields and the events leading up to the fight on the Standard company and from the material thus gained will write a series of articles for an eastern publication.

The house today passed the Holden anti-gas pumping bill. It will now become a law. The bill prohibits the use of pumps on gas wells, but permits compressors on pipe lines.

The piping of gas from the southern Kansas fields will not be seriously interfered with. This is a compromise with the element which insisted on prohibiting piping gas.

The anti-discrimination bill will probably be considered by the house tomorrow which is the last day of the regular legislative session. The legislature will not adjourn for a week as the oil matter must be disposed of in addition to the railroad bill.

[illegible] Eleven Persons Killed and More Than 50 Injured in Brooklyn.

[illegible]

KNOWN TO BE UNSAFE FOR SEVERAL YEARS PAST—DISASTER OCCURRED AT FUNERAL SERVICE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Eleven persons were killed and more than 50 injured, some fatally, by the collapse of the decayed supports of the flooring of the Fleet street African Methodist Episcopal church in Brooklyn tonight. Of those killed eight were women, two men and one child.

The killed:
BERTHA GREEN.
TERESA ELLIS.
SAMUEL CHISHOLM.
ANNA BEAN.
ANNA SULLIVAN.
LOUIS SMITH.
MARY SCOTT.
Two unidentified women.
One unidentified child.
One unidentified man.

Death in nearly every case resulted from suffocation.

The building was an ancient ramshackle frame structure, erected 60 years ago in the heart of the colored section of Brooklyn in Fleet street near Myrtle avenue. It was condemned as unsafe several years ago.

Arrangements had been made tonight to hold funeral services of one of the older members of the church, and the auditorium, which is on the second floor of the building, the ground floor being used by the Sunday school, was crowded by an audience of more than 300 persons of whom the majority were women.

The congregation was waiting in silence for the arrival of the body and Pastor Jacobs was standing at the altar awaiting the assumions to meet the funeral procession at the door, when a splintering of timbers was heard and in an instant the half of the auditorium nearest the door collapsed, carrying down more than a hundred persons who were crushed in the wreckage of the flooring and pews.

A great volume of dust for a few moments hid from view the victims. The remainder of the audience, finding themselves cut off from the doors and expecting every instant that the rest of the flooring would collapse under them, fought madly to reach the windows, and in some instances leaped from them and sustained serious injuries.

On the arrival of the police and firemen the work of rescue began. Those remaining uninjured on the portion of the floor remaining intact were taken from the windows by ladders. Those lying in the mass of wreckage on the lower floor could only be reached after the firemen had hewed their way to them with axes. Out of the dreck 10 bodies were taken to a station house and about 30 removed to the Brooklyn hospital, where three women died soon after being admitted. All the ambulances in Brooklyn were called out and about a score of those hurt were able to go home after their injuries had been attended to.

Heartrending scenes were witnessed in the station house, which was thronged with relatives and friends who came to identify the dead.

LIVELY SCENE OCCURS IN THE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—With a handful of Republicans aided by the Democrats, Representative Burton of Ohio today gained complete control of the house and forced an amendment to the civil sundry bill requiring the use of granite in the construction of the public buildings at Cleveland, his home town. Chairman Hemenway was put to rout, while the unusual spectacle was witnessed of the presiding officer being twice overruled on an appeal from his decisions. The amendment, however, was not agreed to until Mr. Hemenway had exhausted unsuccessfully every means at his disposal to check the tide against him. In order to adopt the amendment it was necessary to revert to a page of the bill already passed over, a procedure also unusual.

Seeing that he had been outflanked by Mr. Burton, Mr. Hemenway several times sought an amendment after the bill had been reported to the house for favorable action but his motions were voted down. So clearly was he and his followers in the minority that Mr. Hemenway interrupted a roll call to move the passage of the bill, which carried amid loud applause. The bill carries a total appropriation of $55,272,280.

Earlier in the day the conference report on the army appropriation bill was agreed to and a number of measures pertaining to the District of Columbia were passed.

BLACK DIAMOND GETS BOWE PICTURE ASSAYS.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 27.—Operators working on the Black Diamond property on Tenderfoot hill are maintaining occasional shipments of ore at the same time doing much development work. A number of their assays in the last few days have been running up into the pictures as ore as high as 33 ounces to the ton is being mined on the property.

CHICAGO HEIRESS MURDERED BY MAN WHOSE ATTENTIONS SHE REPELLED—MURDERER COMMITS SUICIDE.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Miss Mary Catherine Mulvell, an heiress, was murdered today by Daniel Herman, a policeman whose love she had refused. The crime was committed in the most fashionable part of Michigan boulevard, at a time when the avenue was filled with pedestrians and carriages. Herman after killing the young woman made his escape and tonight committed suicide in a lodging house at 3165 Archer avenue by shooting himself through the brain.

The young lady was returning from St. James parochial school, where she frequently acted as a substitute teacher and had reached the corner of Twenty-ninth street and Michigan avenue when she met Herman, who had evidently been waiting for her. What passed between them will never be known. Suddenly Herman seized the girl's arms, drew her close to him and fired three times. One bullet passed through her brain, one tore off a finger of her right hand and the third missed her.

Herman became infatuated with the girl through hearing her play at St. James Catholic church where she acted as organist, and had for a long time annoyed her with his attentions, constantly urging her to marry him. Herman had been a member of the Chicago police force for several years acting as a "plain clothes" man. For about one year he had been on furlough.

[illegible] New Railroad for Texas.

CHIHUAHUA AND PACIFIC WILL BE EXTENDED TO JESUS MARIA AND LATER TO PACIFIC COAST.

W. C. Greene will later be extended to Guaymas, southern Mexico.

The plan of the Chihuahua and Pacific company to extend its road to the Pacific coast by way of the same route has also been announced and the result of the contest for a right of way is being awaited with considerable interest as an entirely new section of vast mineral and timber interests will be acquired and developed by the successful road.

[illegible] Women's Auxiliary Meeting Yesterday.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian association was held in the parlors of the building yesterday afternoon, Mrs. J. B. Gregg, first vice president, in the chair.

Mrs. John Lennox, chairman of the committee appointed to revise the membership list of the association, made a partial report and more time was granted in which to complete the work.

A gratifying report was made by Miss Dorsey, chairman of the social committee, in regard to the reception tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Lester McLean on the evening of February 13.

The house committee has planned a series of sewing meetings for the purpose of repairing the linen at the association building. An urgent call is made for volunteers to be present next Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

[illegible] Strengthen Censorship of the Dispatches Prevents Definite News as to Point At Which Crossing Was Made.

[illegible]

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28.—2:15 a. m.—According to the Associated Press dispatches from Mukden the Japanese Sunday evening crossed the Shakhe river, but the place of crossing was eliminated by the censor. The advance was checked by Russian reinforcements. This is the most important news from the scene of war tonight. Fighting is continuing on the Russian left flank with indications that the Japanese are planning a demonstration against the center but Russians believe their positions are impregnable.

MUKDEN, Feb. 27.—The Japanese crossed the Shakhe river last evening, having driven in the pickets of the Russian vanguard. Russian supports came up and stopped the Japanese advance.

On the right flank all is quiet, but movements of the Japanese indicate an intention of attacking the Russian center, at least in the way of a demonstration.

Heavy firing continued today from the eastward. The soldiers of the Tsinkhechen division are in good spirits, in spite of the heavy losses they have sustained and the necessity which compelled them to retreat. They are encouraged by the execution they wrought upon the Japanese whose bodies were piled in heaps outside the redoubts at Beresneff hill and the trenches at Tsinkhetchen.

Yesterday afternoon there was a violent storm of heavy wet snow. The temperature during the night moderated.

MUKDEN, Feb. 27.—The Russians report that the Japanese are in possession of Taling, and also the pass between Taling and Katouling. The possession of Taling threatens Fusharn, Tiepling and Hiegesway.

Taling is regarded as of the same consequence to the Japanese in their operations against Mukden as was Motienling in relation to Liao-yang.

In case the Japanese push on from the southeast their operations will be among the hills.

[illegible] Swayne Acquitted

Senate Votes on Articles of Impeachment Presented by House Finding Him Not Guilty.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. The senate today concluded the impeachment trial of Judge Swayne by acquitting him on all the charges made against him in the articles of impeachment presented by the house and then passed the naval appropriation bill.

The voting on the Swayne case began at 10:10 o'clock, twenty minutes after the senate convened and continued until 11:45. There was no discussion, all the time being consumed in taking the 12 votes necessary to dispose of each of the articles. On the two articles charging the use of private railroad cars only 13 yeas were cast for conviction.

The naval bill was discussed by Messrs. Teller, Gorman, McCumber, Blackburn, Carmack, Hale, Lodge, Martin and Perkins.

Mr. Hale again criticised the too rapid increase of the navy and Mr. Lodge defended the policy of the administration in foreign matters and in the naval increase. The naval bill as passed carries a total appropriation of $100,300,000.

Mr. Lodge said the attitude of the United States in Santo Domingo was due to the fact that the United States was invited to do what it had done there and to the fact that Santo Domingo and Hayti were at our doors. We have condemned the island to the condition in which it now is by shutting other nations out and must assume the responsibility.

Mr. Teller said if the United States was to become a collector we would need a navy twice as large as that we now have.

Mr. Carmack's motion to cut out one of the two proposed battleships was voted down, 22 to 35.

When the amendment to the Indian appropriation bill was reached renewing the oil leases on the Osage reservation in Indian Territory, Mr. Hale made a point of order against it. The amendment was defeated by Messrs. Stewart, Penrose, Depew, Teller and Quarles, who said there was justice in the extension and it ought to be adopted. They urged Mr. Hale to withdraw his point of order, but he refused.

Mr. Depew said there were many people in New York whose entire finances were tied up in the leases. At his suggestion the matter went over until tomorrow.

In the course of consideration of the bill a protracted debate took place on the question on the right of Indian allottees to alienate property owned by them. Messrs. Spooner, Teller, Bailey, Clapp, McCumber, Stewart, Heyburn, Dubois and others participated, the consensus of opinion seeming to be that the Indians should not be allowed to part with their homesteads.

[illegible] Accidents

Shift Boss on Portland Sustains Fracture of Skull, the Others Are Not So Serious.

Special to the Gazette.

VICTOR, Feb. 27.—Three small accidents occurred in different properties in this end of the district today. The first happened shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, when Louis Pearson, a shift boss on the Portland mine, was struck on the head by a piece of falling pipe while standing near the air compressor, sustaining a bad fracture of the skull.

The second occurred to William Reidel, who had a very similar experience while walking in one of the drifts of the Mary Nevin company. When nearing the shaft a large piece of rock fell, striking him on the head, inflicting serious injuries. Both men were taken to the Red Cross hospital, where at a late hour tonight they were getting along as well as could be expected.

The third accident occurred to James Walker, who was at work in the shaft of the Vindicator No. 2 mine. While breaking rock on a side wall a large piece fell, striking him on the left hand, badly crushing his little finger. His injuries were immediately attended to by a local physician and, while nothing serious, will lay him off from his work for a number of days.

[illegible] Operations [illegible]

Russia Will Compel Those From the Lena Who Broke Their Word to Return—Saves Complications.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The announcement that the Russian government has directed the three naval officers who broke their parole and escaped from the Lena at San Francisco to return to that ship was received with gratification at the navy department, principally because Admiral McCall who is directly responsible for the detention of the Lena's personnel will be relieved from what otherwise might be the disagreeable necessity of abridging the shore leaves of the Lena's officers and crews in the future.

The action also relieves the state department from making apologies to Japan for permitting a breach of neutrality such as might be properly charged if Russian sailors interned under conditions imposed in the Lena case were allowed to escape.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Thirteen Russian officers from the far east who are on their way home under parole were in Washington today to pay their respects to the Russian ambassador.

DISCOVERY OF SEVENTH SATELLITE OF JUPITER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—W. W. Campbell, director of the Lick observatory, announced today that another satellite of Jupiter has been discovered by Astronomer Perrine of the Lick observatory staff. BETTING ON THE BOUT WITH BATTLING NELSON TONIGHT IS 10 TO 8 IN FAVOR OF THE LATTER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—The betting on the result of the 20-round bout between Young Corbett and Battling Nelson tomorrow night has settled to 10 to 8 with Corbett at the short end. Efforts to secure even money failed and Nelson was installed favorite on account of his recent victory over the former champion. Very favorable reports come from both training camps and it is said that Corbett, stung by the humiliation of two successive defeats, has managed to get himself in better condition than he has been for years. There is a promise of a big attendance.

Jack Welch of this city will probably be the referee.

BRITISH STEAMER WILL BE DETAINED AT MANILA.

MANILA, Feb. 27.—The British steamer Carlisle, which was chartered by the Russian government and which, when 300 miles out from Vladivostok, lost her propellor, resorted to sail, was carried by contrary winds and currents to the Philippines and anchored in San Miguel bay, off the south end of the island of Luzon, February 10, and was towed into this port today. At the time of her arrival in San Miguel bay the vessel was 85 days out from Vladivostok, with supplies for Port Arthur.

A Russian supercargo is now in charge of the Carlisle, the cargo of which consists of powder, shells and other munitions of war. The customs authorities here have sealed down the hatches and the Carlisle will probably be detained until the conclusion of the war.

Florida Jurist Has a Large Majority in His Favor on Every Count---Large Crowd Witnesses The Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The senate sitting as a court of impeachment for the trial of Charles Swayne, district judge for the northern district of Florida, today acquitted him on all of the twelve articles of impeachment.

On none of the articles was there even a majority for conviction, although it required two-thirds to convict. The closest vote was on the last article, the contempt case of W. C. O'Neal, when 35 senators voted guilty and 47 not guilty, while on two articles only 13 senators voted for conviction.

The voting for the most part was on party lines, though there was not a strict alignment on any article.

At the conclusion of the voting the presiding officer directed the clerk to enter an acquittal on the records and the court then adjourned without delay.

Judge Swayne was not in the senate during the roll calls, but in the president's room just back of the chamber. The result of each ballot was sent to him by his attorneys.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The voting on the impeachment case of Judge Swayne began at 10:10 today on the first article, in which Judge Swayne is charged with certifying a false claim for expenses.

The vote was guilty 33; not guilty 49. The detailed vote on first article follows: Guilty—Bacon, Bailey, Bard, Bate, Berry, Blackburn, Carmack, Clark (Mont.) Clay, Cockrell, Culberson, McCumber, McEnery, McLaurin, Mallory, Martin, Money, Morgan, Nelson, Newlands, Overman, Patterson, Pettus, Simmons, Stone, Taliaferro, Teller—33.

Not guilty Alger, Allee, Allison, Ankeny, Bell, Beveridge, Burnham, Burrows, Clapp, Clark (Wyo.) Crane, Cullom, Depew, Dick, Dietrich, Dillingham, Dolliver, Dryden, Dubois, Elkins, Fairbanks, Foraker, Foster, (Wash.) Frye, Fulton, Gallinger, Gamble, Gibson, Hale, Hansbrough, Heyburn, Hopkins, Kean, Kearns, Lodge, Long, McComas, Millard, Penrose, Perkins, Platt, (Conn.) Platt, (N. Y.), Proctor, Quarles, Scott, Smoot, Spooner, Stewart, Warren—49.

The vote on the second and third articles being similar charges, resulted in each case 32 guilty, 50 not guilty.

Clark of Montana, voted not guilty on the second and third articles and this was the only change from the first.

The fourth article related to Swayne's use of the private car of the Jacksonville, Tampa & Key West Railroad company. The vote resulted guilty 13, not guilty 69. The senators who voted guilty on the fourth article were:

Bailey, Berry, Blackburn, Carmack, Cockrell, Culberson, Daniel, McLaurin, Martin, Money, Morgan, Newlands, Pettus.

The fifth article was similar to the fourth and the vote was the same as the vote on the fourth.

The sixth article charged Judge Swayne with non-residence in the district. The vote was guilty 31; not guilty 51.

On the sixth article the vote was the same as on the second and third articles except Senators Dubois and Gibson who were for conviction, for the first time and Clark, of Montana, who voted for the conviction, and the vote of Kittredge, which was for acquittal.

The seventh article was similar to the sixth and the vote was 19 guilty, 63 not guilty.

The eighth article related to the contempt case of E. T. Davis, guilty 31, not guilty 51.

On the ninth article the vote was guilty 31, not guilty 51.

Article 10, related to the contempt case of Simeon Beldon and the vote was guilty 31, not guilty 51.

Article 11, was similar to article ten and the vote was the same. The twelfth and last article was the contempt case of O'Neal and the vote was guilty 35, not guilty 47.

This acquitted Judge Swayne of all charges.

ROBBED SCHOOLS

CONSPIRACY UNEARTHED TO STEAL GOODS VALUED AT $10,000 FROM NEW YORK SUPPLY HOUSE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—With the arrest of a driver employed by a carter doing much work for the board of education, the police believe they have uncovered a conspiracy in which a dozen or more men are [illegible] whereby the department of supplies of the school board has for the last three or four years been mulcted of goods valued at $10,000 or more.

Complaint was recently made in a public report by an official of the board that thousands of dollars worth of school supplies were being stolen, and detectives were at once put to work on the case. They found a store on the lower east side where the stolen articles were on sale, and several other stores are under suspicion.

According to the police the driver in the course of one of his trips would stop and leave his truck unguarded, while men known to him would take from the wagon articles left in bundles. These were disposed of later to small dealers.

HUNDRED MILLIONS IN NEW STOCK COMPANIES

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Papers filed for new companies in eastern states during February with a capital of $1,000,000 or over, represent a total of $98,600,000. This is a decrease as compared with January of over $17,600,000 due to several incorporations in January with much larger capitalizations than those in February. Notwithstanding the decrease in February, the total was much larger than for any month in 1904 down to May, when the incorporations were $182,600,000.

Maine, as for some months past, heads the list of new incorporations with a total of $42,000,000. New Jersey comes next with $27,000,000 and New York follows with $24,600,000.

Mrs. Cody is quoted as having said: "I am as proud of Col. Cody as I was 40 years ago. I still love Col. Cody and would be glad to welcome him home to the ranch, "Scouts' Rest," tomorrow, if he would say the word. I am perfectly willing to forgive and overlook all the serious charges he has made against me, except the poisoning [illegible] that will be all right if he will make a public denial. I believe that we could be happy together if he would leave certain persons who in the past few years have exerted an undue influence over him."

WILL BE ARRESTED

SHERIFF'S OFFICE WORKING ON CLEWS WHICH MAY LEAD TO CAPTURE OF CARELESS RIFLEMAN.

Archie Bruening, the thirteen-year-old lad who was shot in the face with a 22-caliber rifle ball while attending to his work in a pasture on his father's land near the baseball park in Ivywild, on Friday afternoon, is reported as making rapid progress toward recovery, and unless unexpected complications set in he will not suffer seriously as a result of the accident, if such it was.

The father of the injured boy and the people of the vicinity generally are very much worked up over the shooting, and are making strenuous efforts to ascertain the identity of the person who was so grossly careless with his rifle and who, since the fact of the shooting of the boy has been made public, has been so indifferent to his deed as to fail to make himself known and express regret over his act.

The matter has been placed in the hands of the sheriff, and good clews as to the identity of the miscreant have been secured. If sufficient proof to justify his arrest can be found, it is expected that he will be made an example of in the hope that the lesson will make parents less ready to place firearms in the hands of children as a means of amusement.

On each of the two properties leased are complete plants of mining machinery. The properties have been operated by Mr. Stratton and other persons and have been good producers.

It is understood that negotiations are pending for leasing the John A. Logan property on Bull hill and that the other Bull hill properties will not be leased until this one has been disposed of.

MINISTERS HAVE A HEATED DISCUSSION OF THE METHODS USED BY MODERN EVANGELISTS

At the meeting of the Ministerial association this morning in the Y. M. C. A. parlors, the present methods of evangelism were discussed. The paper of the morning was read by the Rev. S. H. Cheadle, of the Hillside Congregational church, the subject of his paper being "The Strength and Weakness of Modern Evangelism." He discussed the question from the theological and practical standpoint, and his criticisms called out many opposing expressions from the ministers present.

The Rev. Robert D. Graham, of the Tabernacle Baptist church, was appointed chairman for the month of March.

The work of the committee on political matters was brought up for discussion, and it was suggested that it be pushed more energetically from now until the opening of the spring campaign. There will probably be a meeting of the committee some time this week, so that a definite report can be made at the next meeting of the association.

The paper for next week will be read by the Rev. R. W. Moore, pastor of the Christian church in Colorado City, on "The Best Methods of Getting Church Members to Work."

FIVE MILLIONS [illegible] IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—With the fire that destroyed its immense export terminals still burning, though beyond the power to do further damage, the Illinois Central railroad announces today that as soon as the ruins cool, forces will be put to work to clear away the debris. The Stuyvesant docks and elevators will be promptly rebuilt on a more elaborate and substantial scale than before.

Meantime the officials of the road are today engaged in the formulation of plans that will enable them to handle the traffic now on its way here from the west and avoid any material diversion of freight from this city.

Conservative estimates figure the immediate loss by the fire at $5,000,000, divided as follows:

Wharves, $312,000; two elevators, warehouses, wharfsheds Nos. 1 to 8 and part of No. 9, $2,500,000; cotton destroyed, 23,000 bales, $920,000; 700,000 bushels of grain, $385,000; 15,000 barrels of sugar, $300,000; cotton seed cake, 130 carloads, $97,500; lumber, $16,625; cement, $56,250; meal, 2 cars, $10,000; sundries, $150,000; five hundred freight cars, $375,000; ships damaged, $50,000; City fire department, two engines and four horses, $15,000; private property, and other damage, $216,000.

It is estimated that the insurance on stored freight, etc., will approximate four million dollars.

The railroad company carried its own insurance and the contents of the various elevators and sheds were insured in the local and foreign agencies.

Ten Blocks.

The wharves covered 4,050 feet, over a distance of ten blocks. Of this wharfage, 3,500 feet and what it contained was destroyed, the remainder at the upper end of the terminals being saved through the fact that the wind blew strongly in the opposite direction. The destroyed wharf cost $500,000. Elevator "D," leased to Harris, Scott and Co., of Chicago, cost $300,000 when built, and elevator "E," which was operated by the Illinois Central cost $400,000.

IMMENSE WAREHOUSES OF ILLINOIS CENTRAL WERE FIRE SWEPT STEAMSHIPS BURNED AND MANY SMALLER HOMES WERE DESTROYED.

No Lives Lost.

Apparently no lives were lost in the fire, though there were many narrow escapes of those were engaged in fighting the flames, owing to its rapid spread, and lives were constantly endangered by debris of all kinds that was whirled through the air. The escape of two fire engines was cut off and their crews had to run for their lives, Driver Charles Richardson of No. 6 being painfully hurt.

The fire started in the conveyors to elevator "D." It spread with remarkable rapidity, sparks dropping into oil barrels on the wharf and extending the flames in every direction. Ten ships were lying at the docks when the fire started and all except two escaped without damage. The Indian, of the Leland line, had her rails, cabin house, masts, etc. wiped clean off and the Cycle was burned about the bow and sides.

All the tugs in the harbor that had steam up, hurried to the scene when the fire started and by heroic efforts succeeded in pulling the steamers into the river, out of reach of the flames.

Superintendent C. M. Dunn directed the forces of the railroad for several hours and when the fire was under control went to the office of the company, where he spent the night in wire communications with officials east and west in arranging plans for clearing the wreckage away. He said that it was probable that the piers, elevators and sheds could be restored within a year and that they would be more extensive and substantial than those destroyed. Mr. Dunn said in his opinion the fire originated from spontaneous combustion.

Will Rebuild.

Throughout the night and today, many messages passed between the local officials and the head officers of the company in New York and Chicago and arrangements were set on foot to take care of the traffic now enroute here and to provide for handling the export and import trade of the company until the building is rebuilt.

The Texas & Pacific railroad has an immense elevator at Westwego and there is also an elevator at Chalmette, the property of the Frisco.

General Manager Preston of the latter road tendered the use of the Chalmette property to the Illinois Central and it is probable that the traffic will be handled at that point.

In addition to the railroad property the fire destroyed the Crescent Ice company plant, many small stores and a large number of small residences, and many pathetic scenes were witnessed as the poor occupants of them struggled to save their small belongings at the risk of their lives.

The fire will temporarily throw out of employment a large number of employes, but this loss will be compensated by the very much larger number which will be employed in the course of a few days in clearing away the debris and reconstructing the terminals at the highest attainable speed.

Romance of a Snowstorm

(By Ann Anonymous.)

It was an awful storm, the snow swirled in over the fences and fields, and there was nothing to be seen, nothing but white fields, broken here and there by black clumps of trees.

Dick Harwood felt the heat in the wind and spoke softly to his horses. They were floundering slowly through the snow, eager for the end of the journey and for the comfort of the warm barn and well filled mangers.

"Who-oo-oo-oo-pe!"

Dick lifted his head and looked out into the storm-swept night. That was Myra's cry, the one he had taught her when he was in short trousers, and she wore long braids.

"Who-oo-oo-oo-pe!" again came the cry, but Myra was miles away in the big city. It came from the little schoolhouse at the cross-roads, which was half covered with drifting snow. Dick urged his horses nearer and, discerned in the doorway a dark figure. Then he caught the sound of a voice.

"Please, whoever you are, won't you stop?"

"Myra!" he cried, and flung the reins down and ran to her.

"Why, Dick Harwood!" She held out both of her hands and then, while he held them in his warm clasp, she broke down and explained with little sobbing gasps: —

"I started from the station before the storm—I thought I could get home, you know, and then it started—and at last I took shelter in here, hoping that some one would pass [illegible] me a ride, and you are the fi[illegible] on who has come—and I am nearly frozen—nearly frozen, Dick."

"Wasn't there any wood in the stove?" asked Dick, practically.

"Yes, but I havn't any matches, and here I have been for hours with wood and stove and no fire."

Dick flung the door open and went into the schoolroom. The rows of battered little desks confronted him spectrally as he lighted a match and touched it to the ready laid fuel. The flames leaped up and at once began to give out comfort.

"Now you get warm while I go and look after the horses," said Dick. "There is a shed back of the house and I can cover the team with the old robes and give them a feed of corn. I'll be back in a minute."

When he returned he found that she had drawn an old settee before the fire. She sat in one corner of it with her face pink in the reflected glow. Dick noticed the whiteness of the hands that she held in front of the blaze and the gleam of gold in the hair that rippled under the modish turban.

He brought in several packages and laid them beside her.

"Are you hungry?" he asked.

"Starved! Oh! you blessed boy, you were taking home groceries," and she held up a box of biscuits.

He thrilled at the sound of her old name for him. How often had she called him her "blessed boy" in the days before she had become ambitious for a career.

"It's so nice to see you, Myra," he said, as he rummaged in the little cupboard over the teacher's desk.

"Nice—that isn't the word for the way I feel," said Myra from the settee. "I was just dying to see you all," she added the last word quickly, as Dick whirled around and looked at her with his soul in his eyes. She did not meet his look, however, and he turned away with a little sigh.

"Do you like it in town?" he murmured.

"Um—um," she murmured.

"Does that mean 'yes' or 'no'?" He had brought out a little kettle and a teapot and was filling the kettle with water from a covered pail that stood behind the stove.

"Both," she laughed. "I like it and I don't like it."

"What don't you like?" he asked.

"Oh, it's all so cold. Every one thinks of himself. Why, Dick, I might live and die with twenty people in the same house and not one of them would know it until the undertaker came. That is the trouble—no one cares, no one cares," she declared passionately.

He leaned forward eagerly, then checked himself. "But you have your music?"

"Oh, music," she said, disparagingly, and at her tone his heart leaped.

The water had boiled in the little kettle.

"I will let you make the tea," he said, and opened the package of the fragrant herb. While she heated the teapot and put the tea to steep he drew a little table in front of the settee and put on it crackers and cheese and sardines; then with a laugh and a flourish he set in the center a great, creamy custard pie.

"Aunt Priscilla sent it to mother," he said, "but I guess we need it the most."

Myra danced around the table and clapped her hands like the little girl Dick remembered so well. Finally she stopped in front of him. "Dick," she said, "did you ever eat a boarding-house pie?"

He shook his head.

"Well," she said, "you are in no condition to appreciate Aunt Priscilla's pie. I am the only one who will do its deliciousness justice."

It was not a bad supper, that impromptu one served by candlelight in the old schoolhouse, and Dick felt himself in a blissful dream as he looked across the table at the fair face.

After the meal Myra fell into a reflective mood.

"Do you remember the winter afternoons right here in the old room when we children used to pop corn and roast apples, and Miss Betsy would read to us from Miss Betsy?"

"I remember you with the firelight on your face and with your cheeks red as they are now," said Dick suddenly.

"And how we used to glide down the long hill outside and how I lost my mittens once in the snow and you found them for me?"

"I remember the kiss you gave me for a reward," said Dick.

Myra blushed. "Listen how the wind blows," she said irrelevantly.

Dick got up and went to the door.

"It's an awful night," he said, as he came back with his coat collar powdered with white, but when the horses are rested and I can see where I think I can get you home. It isn't far."

He knelt in front of the stove and poked in more wood. Myra sat with her chin in her hand, as she leaned her elbow on her knee and gazed dreamily into the fire.

"It's good to be at home," she said. Something in her tone gave him courage.

"I wish home might always be where our two hearts were, Myra," he said, with uncommon poetry.

"I think that is the only home in which I shall ever be happy, Dick," she said simply.

"Do you mean it, Myra? My ways are such plain ways, dear?"

she sighed happily as he drew her to him.

"Oh, you blessed boy," she said, "it was just because I loved the plain ways that I came back and because I missed my friends and the dear old hills, and you, Dick."

SORROWS OF THE KING.

The king went pacing to and fro,
He kicked the queen's small poodle pup;
The clown shied off and murmured, "Oh!
I prithee, sire, what is up?"

"Dost feel thy conscience pricking, hey?
Or does thy liver play thee tricks?"
The monarch sadly answered, "Nay,"
And closed the door a dozen kicks.

"Alas, uneasy lests the crown,"
The jester said, whereat the king
Let fly his mace and knocked him down
And smiled to see him quivering.

"It ain't my crown, you saitiff lout!"
The potentate in anger said.
"Nor has my liver knocked me out;
My conscience, you should know, is dead.

"But at the queen's behest I swore Off smokin' yesterday, and it—"
He bit his nails and frowned some more—
"Ain't time to light another fit."

GOWNED IN SWEETS

Creation, Exclusively of American Make, to be Worn by Mrs. Roosevelt.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—A dress destined to become historic is the one to be worn by Mrs. Roosevelt at the inauguration ball on March 4, 1905.

In the first place, as an article destined for an occasion of national importance, every inch of cloth, every thread and every tiniest dot of decoration is of American make.

The silk was especially woven on an American design by an American designer, in an American silk mill in Paterson, N. J. The design was then broken, in order that there might be only one dress in the world of its kind.

The material, which cost $50, was then put in the hands of an American dressmaker, Miss Mary Fitzgerald, 76 Lexington avenue, New York, and made up in every smallest particular by American girls.

The design is simple and dignified.

In effect it is a handsome but unelaborate ball gown of electric blue brocade, trimmed with chiffon, frame shade, and some fine old lace.

The real elegance of the creation lies in the excellence of the material and the care with which it has been made.

The brocade is woven in a pattern of golden feathers in medallions, on a soft blue ground, in which appear the figures of birds with outstretched wings.

The bodice and skirt, in defiance of a princess-made season, are cut.

The bodice is made in the Louis XV. fashion, with a low, square cut neck with a shirred tucker of chiffon and a long pointed stomach.

The only trimming is a little rare point lace, an heirloom in Mrs. Roosevelt's family, across the shoulders.

The sleeves consist of a very small drapery of chiffon across the upper part of the arms.

The skirt has a wide, circular sweep and a short train, measuring just seventy-eight inches from the back of the girdle at the waist line to the hem. It contains about thirty yards of brocade and is made absolutely without visible decoration.

An indescribably soft and beautiful effect is given, however, by the twenty yards of silk and taffeta in ruffles and frillings that elaborate the lining. The petticoat is of taffeta and ruffled to the knees with knife pleatings of chiffon.

With the gown a plume of electric blue will be worn in the hair. Blue silk stockings and blue satin slippers will complete the costume. The whole thing will amount in cost to nearly $1,200.

Mrs. Roosevelt had her last fitting last week and the gown was sent to Washington on Saturday night. It will be "tried on" by Mrs. Roosevelt a number of times before the president, to see that it is perfect in every detail.

FERRY STRUCK ICE AND SANK IN SHALLOW WATER

CAIRO, Feb. 27.—The ferryboat Katherine, which plies between Cairo and Birds Point, was struck today near here by a large piece of ice and sank in several feet of water. Many passengers were aboard the boat and a panic followed. All the passengers after much difficulty were taken off in safety.

LYNCHING LIKELY OVER SHOOTING OF WHITES

YAZOO CITY, Miss., Feb. 27.—A difficulty Sunday afternoon between Ed Stevens, a prominent planter living near this city, and four negroes, led to the killing of Stevens and the brother, W. H. Stevens, and the wounding of a negro named Wright, one of the slayers of the Stevens brothers. The negroes escaped. A sheriff and posse are now scouring the country for the negroes, and a lynching is believed to be inevitable if they are captured. Details regarding the killing of the Stevens are meager.

MAUDE ADAMS IN NEW ROLE.

As a Laundry Waif Who Pretends, in a Very Human Little Play. Such a Contrast to Her Other Roles.

When Maude Adams walked out on the stage at the Empire theater last night the usual burst of welcoming applause was drowned in a roar of laughter. No one ever saw Maude Adams look like that before. She was the homely, poverty pinched drudge of a London steam laundry, but that is all did and come again, the play was not made to make people laugh. It is easy to say "Many a cheek was wet with tears," and that sort of thing. There was many a heart full of tears when the curtain fell.

The play, "Quality Street," is not pretentious. It is an hour long one act curtain raiser for "The Little Minister," written by Frederick Fenn and Richard Bryce.

The story is simple enough—almost painfully simple. Amanda Amick, a work-house born orphan, is the burr of the laundry. She lives in a world of her own peopled out of novels of the Edna Lyall type; she is her own heroine. She "pretends" until she almost believes herself.

She has a rich father who is coming to say, "Let her be clothed in raiment, as befits my child," and who will take her away in a coach; she has picked out an uncalled for shirt, and has made it the visible sign and token of a heroic and marvelously handsome lover, who, as a sign that her time of bondage is over, will call for the shirt. She tells of jewels and letters which come to her in great volume at home, but which she will not profane by exhibition to the vulgar eyes of the other laundry girls.

She takes scepticism, abuse and cruelty from the girls, meeting them in turn with hauteur, wraith and contemptuous silence. Left alone in the laundry, the "pretend" weakens and fades. The other girls are all going to Hampstead Heath for the coming Monday bank holiday; nobody ever took Amanda; nobody ever will. So she always wears crepe on her arm when holidays approach and mourns with particularity for imaginary relations opportunely dead.

To her alone comes Mr. Horace Greensmith, claimant to the uncalled for shirt. He is big, he is rough, he is coarse. But not to the dreamy little drudge. His real presence makes every pitiful tale she has told come true. Timidly, prettily, she adores him and woos him. Besides being big and rough he is also a bit bad, and he sees possibilities. He invites her out for the holiday. She is transported with joy. He suggests secrecy, her sense of propriety is not touched—the child never had such a thing—but her pride is. He goes and takes the shirt with him. Amanda can never pretend any more; she knows it. She wilts in hopeless despair.

Simple? Yes. More or less after Mr. Dickens? Yes. No range of action? Quite true.

But whether she was relating resounding romances from her yellow back inspired imagination or she was slashing at her tormentors with gutter snipe repartee, whether she was pleading with her grossly materialized ideal for a kind look or a word, or whether she was at the waking of her pitiful dream, Amanda, as Miss Adams made her, was altogether true and pitiful. She walked as a half starved work house outcast might—but her pride surged up with everlasting femininity when she thought her hero was ashamed to be seen with her. The discovery that Miss Adams has a tenement voice and can use it came with something of a start.

The only cheerful spots in the play are those which with very great skill the playwrights have used to make a contrast for their pathos. Miss Adams, all sorrow and grime, is a new Miss Adams, but she has not weakened her hold on the rank to which she has attained.

For the rest Violet Rand showed a very convincing toughness as a pert laundry sorter and Arthur Byron seemed a bit coarser and tougher than even his unpleasant part was meant to be. Margaret Gordon, May Galyer and Ethel Winthrop had other laundry parts. The cockney dialect of the play seems to have been damaged in coming across the Atlantic; the play would be just as well without it.—New York Sun.

SNOW SHOVELLERS GET WARM MEALS

Society Woman Keeps an Open House to Hungry Hordes that Stream in to Receive Free Meals.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—For four days the residence of Mrs. Alexander T. Van Nest, of No. 31 West Thirty-seventh street, has been open to the cold and hungry hordes of laborers at work on the block in clearing off the snow. At all hours of the day quantities of food, prepared at her direction, were served to the men who applied for it.

"The snow has been allowed to collect in this street ever since winter began without a single attempt to remove it," said Mrs. Van Nest yesterday. "When I got up Thursday morning I saw the street filled with men clearing it away. They looked cold and hungry and I called the foreman into the house to talk with him. He told me that the men took only enough time off to snatch a cold bite of something, so I agreed to provide hot food for them if he would give them time to eat it without deducting any thing from their wages. He consented and the men were fed."

The arrangement completed, Mrs. Van Nest gave orders to her butler and in a short time the feast was spread. The toilers came into the house in detachments and while they thawed out enjoyed a square meal. Then they went back to work and the rest took their places about the tables set out in the hallways. A steady stream of half frozen workmen poured into the handsome residence. The foreman said that even allowing the men the time they spent at their meals the city was the winner, for they did a vastly greater amount of work than he had ever seen them accomplish before.

"No credit to me at all," laughed Mrs. Van Nest, when questioned about her philanthropic scheme yesterday. "I was so delighted and surprised at the prospect of getting the street clean that I would gladly have given the men ten rupia."

HIGH SCHOOL INNOVATIONS.

IT is not surprising that the decision of the Board of Education to add a course in physical culture for girls to the High School curriculum has been received with pleasure by the pupils, for it is a kind of work that naturally excites the lively interest of those who take part in it. Like basket weaving and other forms of manual training, it possesses a good deal of the fascination of play, while at the same time it is instructive and highly beneficial.

Nowhere is the change in educational methods in recent years more apparent than in the attention now paid to the cultivation of the physical as well as the mental being. There was a time when the efforts of school authorities were concentrated on cramming the youthful mind as full of ideas as it would hold. The comic paper pictures of the precocious Boston child with the protuberant cranium that bulges out on all sides like a Bartlett pear are not entirely creatures of the imagination. But nowadays it is recognized that if good mental work is to be expected of the pupils they must be given an opportunity to develop physically as well as mentally, which explains the encouragement everywhere given to athletics for the boys and to physical culture for the girls.

The proposed course in domestic science is another matter which might profitably be incorporated in the work of the High School, provided of course, that it is taken up in earnest and treated as a serious matter. A good deal of fun has been had at the expense of the cooking schools, and it is no doubt true that unless great care is used in the selection of an instructor and in adopting the right methods, the time devoted to teaching cooking and other domestic arts to a class of High School girls would be mostly spent in "mussing" and play. If this were the case it would of course be worse than wasted. However, a committee of the Board of Education is now investigating the matter and it is hardly likely that the plan will be adopted if it is found to be in any way impracticable.

THE SWAYNE CASE.

TO THOSE who have followed the proceedings of the Swayne impeachment trial the verdict of acquittal rendered by the Senate yesterday does not come as a surprise. It has been generally admitted that the prosecution made out a very weak case and there have been frequent intimations that the members regarded the whole affair as a farce. A two-thirds vote would have been necessary to conviction and the fact that the closest vote, that on the twelfth article, was guilty 35, not guilty 47, shows how complete was the triumph of the accused.

This is only the eighth impeachment trial of a Federal official in the history of the Government, and as only two of them have resulted in conviction it is possible that the Senate was moved to regard the case of Judge Swayne more leniently than it would have done but for the tradition. In the eyes of the grave and reverend Senators precedent is a sacred thing, and in the matter of impeachment trials most of the precedents favor acquittal.

The only two convicted officials were district judges. One was removed from the bench in 1803 for drunkenness, and another in 1862 for rebellion. The five cases which resulted in acquittal—not including the Swayne case—were against a Supreme judge, a district judge, a Senator, a cabinet member and a President. The Senator was acquitted for lack of jurisdiction, the Senate deciding that he was not a "civil officer" within the meaning of the Constitution. The case of President Johnson is famous, the accused official escaping conviction by only one vote. The impeachment of W. W. Belknap, who was Secretary of War under General Grant, was ordered in 1876, but he resigned and escaped on the ground that he was a private citizen.

It is an evidence of the high character and integrity of Federal officials as a class that so few of them have been called to answer charges of dereliction in a period of a century and a quarter. Not many other countries, we venture to say, could show such a record.

PRIDE BEFORE DESTRUCTION.

FOLLOWING close on the announcement that "the Emperor of Russia has elected to continue the war" comes the report of another defeat to Kuropatkin's army. The attempt of the Russian commander to establish his left flank in a position to command the crossings of the Taitse river has been frustrated, and Kuropatkin himself reports that "the percentage of killed is very large."

This is especially interesting in view of the Czar's reasons for continuing the war, made public last week. The first of these was "the judgment of the chiefs of the army that Field Marshal Oyama not only can not defeat General Kuropatkin, but stands in danger of defeat himself. How cowardly, therefore, for Russians to ask for mercy, with all the men and money necessary for a successful war!"

This sort of bombast reads well but it is not likely to awaken much enthusiasm in Russia, where the war is very unpopular among the classes who are sufficiently enlightened to know anything about it. They know that while the country may have the men, it has not the money necessary for a successful war, and that if hostilities are continued another year the nation's credit will be almost exhausted. They know, too, that Russia is already whipped and that the chances of retrieving past disasters are so slight as to be hardly worth considering.

But the fact that the Czar has taken such a firm stand in favor of continuing the war shows conclusively that he is still in the control of the grand ducal cabal, a party of men who would rather plunge the nation into the lowest depths of disaster rather than confess failure and make the best of a bad bargain. Nothing can be expected of the Czar, for he is not his own master, but these reactionaries who control him, and through him the government, are fully alive to the seriousness of the situation. They know what may be expected from a continuance of the present policy, but they care more for maintaining their own prestige than for the welfare of the nation.

The longer the war drags on the more complete will be the Japanese triumph and the more humiliating the peace terms to which Russia will have to accede, and for this reason the nations friendly to Japan will view the attitude of the Czar with equanimity. But from a humanitarian standpoint it is regrettable that an idea so utterly fatuous should be allowed to prevail.

If the little Romanoff baby's folks expect to raise him the best way would be to bring him to this country and turn him loose on the streets. The life of a homeless waif in an American city is one of absolute security compared to that of the coddled dukelet with a half dozen Russian palaces and an army of servants at his disposal.

Jacob Riis says that Governor Vardaman is an ass. Colonel Watterson said the same thing a long time ago. Mr. Riis and the Colonel may not agree in their estimates of the President, but on the Vardaman question they meet on common ground.

Our Government has concluded a parcels post agreement with England and it will soon be possible to send a package from here to London cheaper than it can be sent to Denver. How progressive we are in a peculiar sort of a way.

On the thirty-third ballot in the Missouri legislature yesterday Mr. Niedringhaus lost three more votes. It is to be hoped that Mr. Niedringhaus hasn't closed up a lease on a home in Washington.

There would be more sympathy on this side of the water for the Russian people who are clamoring for a zemsky zabor if they would call the thing by some other name.

BRYAN AND ROOSEVELT.

Mr. Bryan is just now giving Mr. Roosevelt a fair amount of worry by approving of his course. The president is eager to remedy certain evils, but he has no wish to earn the reputation of standing for all the long-haired isms that Mr. Bryan still clings to. He is a level-headed statesman, as well as a reformer, and Mr. Bryan is a vivid radical, without deep judgment, and with a prevailing tone that is half ethics and half rhetoric. What is good in him is shared by Roosevelt, La Follette, Folk, and other Democrats and Republicans. His dogged adherence to many errors that are conspicuously connected with his own career is a personal attribute to himself, not shared today by one other influential Democratic statesman.—Collier's Weekly.

PROMINENT PARTS PLAYED BY ASSASSINS.

The assassin whether sane or insane, has played a more prominent part in the history of the world within the past quarter of a century than in any similar period in modern times. Since the assassination of the Czar Alexander II in 1881, two presidents of the French republic, an Empress of Austria, a Shah of Persia, a king of Italy, a king and queen of Servia, a president of Uruguay, a prime minister of Spain, a president of Hayti, a prime minister of Bulgaria, a lord lieutenant of Ireland, and five high Russian officials—the governor of Kharkoff, the governor of Finland, two ministers of the interior and the Grand Duke Sergius—have been "removed" by violence. After the death of Alexander II there were no prominent political assassinations in Russia until that of Prince Obolenski, in 1902, but the movement which began in Finland last year and was later marked by the murder of Plehve gains greater significance from the Moscow terror.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Great Inventors of Modern Times — WATT

THE INVENTION of the steam engine marks a most important epoch in the history of mankind. Industry, and in fact, almost the whole of civilized society, are widely different from what they were before it was invented, and from what they would now be if it had not been invented.

James Watt was not the originator of the idea of using steam as power to drive machinery. A patent on a steam engine was taken out by Thomas Savery almost forty years before Watt was born. Thomas Newcomen also had invented such an engine which was in use for sixty years before that of Watt. The great merit of Watt was that he seized the crude suggestion offered by their crude machines and created out of it a machine so perfect that it speedily worked a mighty industrial and social revolution. ... in history has a ... the same degree as Watt a capacity for philosophical speculation with the perseverance and the ingenuity requisite to the practical application of the conclusions of his philosophy.

JAMES WATT,
Jan. 19, 1736. — Aug. 19, 1819.

Watt's father, at the time he was born, was a prosperous merchant and shipwright at Greenock, the port from which the merchandise of Glasgow was shipped. James was a sickly boy, but studious, industrious and precocious. When he was sent to a commercial school he was ridiculed and abused by his fellow students because of his lack of physical strength and agility. As a child he was troubled by those terrible headaches which later frequently all but prostrated him when he was engaged in the most arduous and important of his life's labors. He read widely, but from early youth concentrated his attention on chemistry and natural philosophy.

There is a story that when he was 14 years old he received a sharp rebuke from his aunt, Mrs. Muirhead, because, as the good woman said to him, "for the last hour you have not spoken one word, but have taken off the lid of that kettle and put it on again, holding now a cup and now a silver spoon over the steam, watching how it rises from the spout." He learned to use the tools in his father's shop with much dexterity and the workingmen there said "Little Jamie has got a fortune at his fingers' tips."

Business reverses suffered by his father made it necessary, before he was 18 years old, for James to begin to learn a trade. He chose that of a maker of philosophical instruments. He entered the service of an instrument maker in London, and in one year learned more about his trade than most apprentices did in seven. He was not a burgess in Glasgow, nor had he served an apprenticeship in the borough, so that when he went to that city to locate he was forbidden to open a shop. Fortunately he had friends among the professors of Glasgow college. Appreciating his ability and skill, they allowed him to establish himself inside the college grounds and gave him the title, "mathematical instrument maker to the university."

Business came slowly. As he had little work to occupy his time, he did much studying. He seems to have first turned his attention to the subject of improving the steam engine in the year 1759 or 1760. The engine was at that time applied chiefly to pumping water from mines, and it was so clumsy and wasteful of fuel as to be of little use. Watt's early experiments led to no result. In the winter of 1763-64 he got hold of a model of Newcomen's engine. From this time the improvement of the steam engine was the chief labor of his life.

The first feature of Newcomen's engine which struck him was its large waste of steam. With a view to remedying its defects, he entered upon the most profound and searching scientific investigation of the properties of steam that ever had been made. He finally came to the conclusion that two conditions were essential to the economic use of steam in a condensing steam engine. First, the temperature of the condensed steam must be 100 degrees Fahrenheit or lower. Second, the cylinder must always be as hot as the steam which enters it. These two conditions were incompatible in Newcomen's engine, and for many months Watt could contrive no way to reconcile them. But one Sunday afternoon in 1765, when he was walking on the Glasgow green, the thought flashed upon him that if the steam were condensed in some vessel besides the cylinder, the temperature of condensation could be kept low while the cylinder stayed hot. The moment when this flash of genius occurred may without much exaggeration be said to have been the one in which the invention of the modern condensing engine took place. When Watt tested his new idea he found the separate condenser acted as he had anticipated, and that by means of it he was able to get four times as much power from a given amount of steam as he had been able to get without it.

Nearly four years were to elapse before he could take out a patent. He was engaged meantime in trying to prove the merits of his engine by trials on a large scale. His early experiments had got him in debt. He therefore made a contract with Dr. Roebuck, founder of the Carron Iron Works, whereby the latter was to have two-thirds of the profits of the in... Roebuck, himself soon got into financial difficulties, and Watt had temporarily to abandon his experiments and take up the profession of civil engineer to get a living. Roebuck finally sold his interest in the engine to Matthew Boulton, proprietor of the Soho Engineering Works, at Birmingham.

On the formation of the firm of Boulton and Watt, Watt removed to Birmingham and in a short time his engine was on the market. He was to work at it ten years more, however, before he should approximate his own ideal of his invention. In its invention and improvement he spent almost a quarter of a century. By 1784, Boulton & Watt's dues from their mining engines were $80,000 a year, and long before either died, the invention had built large fortunes for both members of the firm.

Watt retired from business in 1800, and devoted the rest of his life to philosophical studies and mechanical pursuits. He was the discoverer of the composition of water. He also invented several minor machines, including one to copy sculpture and a letter copying press.

"I look upon him, considering both the magnitude and the universality of his genius, as perhaps the most extraordinary man this country has ever produced," says Wordsworth. He will always take undisputed rank among the greatest benefactors of mankind.

A SCHOOL FOR SPIDERS.

"This is my spiders' school," said the young woman, and with a little stick she brushed a few webs from the wall. "Not much to look at, is it? Only a dozen rows of wine bottles, a great many spiders and a great many webs. I make, nevertheless, a little money out of the school.

"Spiders' webs are in demand among surgeons and among the makers of certain astronomical instruments, the surgeons using them to stop hemorrhages with, and the instrument makers using them on certain very delicate instruments—instruments wherein, strange to say, a human hair would not take their place, because a hair is neither fine enough nor durable enough to serve the required purpose.

"Besides selling the webs, I also sell the spiders. A corrupt class of wine dealers buy the spiders. These men put them among bottles of new wine. I train the spiders to weave on bottles only—I tear down webs woven anywhere else—and it is amazing how quickly these well schooled pupils of mine will cover a case of port or claret with cobwebs, giving to the wine an appearance of great age.

"Six spiders in a week will add two years to the aspect of a dozen bottles of wine. Hence you will readily see how valuable the ugly little creatures are to wine merchants of a certain type."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

WERE MONEYS ADVANCED TO WIDOW LOANS OR PRESENTS?

Earl Johnson Sues Close Friend for Sums He Advanced and Woman in Case Produces Love Letters---Plaintiff Got Mitten for Alleged Threats.

The entire day yesterday was occupied by Justice McClelland in the trial of a spicy suit entitled Earl Johnson vs. Lulu McChesnie, to recover the sum of $110 alleged to be due for work done and money advanced. The plaintiff is an electrician while the defendant is a widow residing in the vicinity of Prospect lake.

During the examination of the plaintiff he said that he wired the residence of the defendant for electricity and at various times had advanced her various sums of money, "merely as loans." He admitted having been very close friends with the defendant for some time and for this reason had assisted her financially. Since that friendship had ceased he had made a demand for the money he alleged to be due, but had been refused.

The defendant alleged that the house wiring had been done at the suggestion of the plaintiff and was in the nature of a Christmas present. She admitted having received various sums of money from the plaintiff at various times but they, also, were presents. She assured the court that the reason for quitting the friendly relations with the plaintiff were due to alleged threats which he had made against her life, and this had occurred several times. Mrs. McChesnie produced various love leters which were read in court, much against the wishes of counsel for the plaintiff and which went to show that the friendship which had existed between the plaintiff and defendant had been warm and close. One letter referred to a trip which the defendant made to Cripple Creek, upon which occasion she did not pay the hotel expenses, etc.

Several exciting tilts were had in the open court between Attorneys Masterson and Gardner, and at one time things assumed such a serious aspect that Constable Gillingham prepared to take a hand. But apologies were afterward made and the matter straightened out. The suit is attracting much attention and many witnesses are in attendance upon the court.

After being out two hours the jury last night returned a verdict for $1 for the plaintiff.

FIGURED OUT JAIL SENTENCE BY DIFFERENTIAL CALCULUS

Graduate of Trinity College, Toronto, and Justice Ruby Wander Off Into Realms of Pure Science During Petty Larceny Trial.

When the case of the People vs. John Ross was called in Justice Ruby's court yesterday there was a surprise in store for all. Ross was charged with stealing a fur boa from the Aiken store, the charge being petty larceny. He has served time in the state penitentiary and his photograph is in the police gallery.

When asked by the justice what business he followed he said he was a professor of mathematics. The defendant further stated that he was a graduate of Trinity college, Toronto, Canada, but that drink had caused his downfall. As Justice Ruby stands high in mathematics he fired a few questions at the prisoner and received prompt and correct answers. The defendant then gave the court a few pointers that showed clearly that he is an advanced mathematician. Finally the judge suggested that for a man of Ross's attainments to steal a fur boa valued at $5, the court believed that the other side of the equation should equal 60 days in the county jail. The prisoner figured a moment and corrected the court by showing that "x" should equal 30 days, and this was the sentence imposed.

Ross entered the Aiken store Friday and solicited a subscription of a quarter. While the clerk was busy he appropriated the fur boa and left the store. He was arrested by City Detectives Burno and Schultz upon a description furnished by Mr. Aiken. In court Ross said that he did not know whether he had taken the boa or not, as he did not know what he did when he was under the influence of liquor.

PROF. W. J. TRUESDALE DIED SUNDAY AT CANFIELD, O., OF TUBERCULOSIS—WAS A WELL-KNOWN EDUCATOR.

Telegraphic advices were received yesterday by friends in Manitou containing the sad news of the death of Prof. W. J. Truesdale, formerly principal of the Manitou High school.

Prof. Truesdale passed away Sunday at Canfield, O., and death was due to tuberculosis from which he had been a sufferer for several years. He was about 38 years old, and is survived by his wife and 5-year-old son.

Prof. Truesdale during his comparatively short residence in Colorado became one of the best known educators in the state. He came here several years ago for his health from Cleveland, O., where he was principal of the High school. He located in Boulder as principal of the High school, and left there a little over a year ago to accept a similar position at Manitou. Failing health, however, compelled him to return to Ohio.

WIFE NO. 2 KNEW ALLEGED BIGAMIST WAS A HUSBAND AT TIME OF HER MARRIAGE

John Carus, cousin of Mrs. Ira Moyer No. 2, arrived in the city yesterday morning from Keokuk, Ia., and announced his intention of taking the young woman back home with him. Moyer, his aunt and wife had many conferences during the day in which the cousin of the girl also anticipated. The chief of police of Keokuk, Ia., will arrive here with requisition papers for Moyer upon a charge of bigamy tomorrow morning.

It was learned yesterday that wife No. 2 whose maiden name was Letta McCarthy, was aware of the fact that Moyer was already a husband at the time she married him. The present proceedings have been instituted by Mr. Carus, the cousin of the girl, who raised her from a baby. When Miss McCarthy was married to Moyer, she was less than 18 years of age and her mother's wife signed the license application giving her consent as guardian to the marriage.

Mrs. Moyer No. 1 is now living in Janesville, Wis. She was married to Moyer at Union Center, Wis., on August 2, 1904, and alleged that Moyer deserted her after securing possession of a portion of her property. Miss McCarthy, wife No. 2, is the owner of a valuable tract of 40 acres of land near Keokuk, Ia., and her relatives believe that Moyer induced her to go through the marriage ceremony with him in the hopes of securing possession of this property. They then resolved to protect the girl at all hazards and instituted the proceedings against Moyer.

THE CHARGE MADE AGAINST COLORADO SPRINGS DRUG COMPANY.—A WARRANT IS SWORN OUT.

Complaint was filed in the police court last evening by E. J. Douglas, of this city, charging the Colorado Springs Drug company with violating the city ordinances governing the sale of liquor by selling whiskey in quantity less than one quart. Judge E. C. Hammond issued a warrant at once, and an officer served the paper upon Adolph Fehringer, president of the Colorado Springs Drug company, at the store on the corner of Huerfano and Tejon streets. The case will be called up for trial in the police court this morning at 10 o'clock.

Douglas, the complaining witness in this case, was arrested Friday by the sheriff upon a bench warrant charging him with contempt of court in failing to appear and testify in a case then pending in the court. He was released with a reprimand, having already served three days' imprisonment in the county jail.

RAILROADS MUST GIVE FAIR RATES

COMMISSION MEN WILL MEET THIS AFTERNOON—WILL JOIN FORCES WITH THE DENVER ASSOCIATION.

The Commission Men's association will hold a meeting this afternoon to determine upon a course of action in regard to the alleged railroad rate discrimination against Colorado Springs and Denver. M. F. Houston, secretary of the Denver Fruit-Produce association, will be in this city and will attend the meeting. It is understood that the Denver association has reached a decision regarding the proper way to secure fair rates and that Mr. Houston will try to persuade the Colorado Springs association to join with the Denver men in fighting for enforcement of the "long and short haul" laws, which provide that rates shall be equally adjusted between intermediate points.

GYPSIES HERE TO TELL FORTUNES

A band of gypsies, recently chased out of Denver by the authorities, have arrived here and yesterday sought to obtain a license to tell fortunes upon the streets. The lowest fee which could be charged by the city clerk under the ordinance is $30 per month, and unless they pay this fee they will not be allowed to do business. So far they have not raised the funds. There are several men in the band who live a life of ease while the women do the work and earn the money for the support of the band.

In the police court yesterday Thomas Kelley, Tom O'Donnell, T. F. Robinson and John Johnson were taxed $10 and costs each for being upon the street in an intoxicated condition.

MINISTERS WILL PUSH CAMPAIGN

At the meeting of the Ministerial association in the Y. M. C. A. parlors yesterday morning, it was suggested that the work of the political committee be pushed more energetically from now until the opening of the municipal campaign, and a meeting of the committee will probably be held this week to prepare a definite report for next Monday's meeting.

"The Strength and Weakness of Modern Evangelism" was the subject of the paper read by the Rev. S. H. Cheadle of the Hillside Congregational church. In the discussion which followed, his criticisms called forth many opposing expressions.

The Rev. R. W. Moore, pastor of the Colorado City Christian church will read the paper next week on "The Best Methods of Getting Church Members to Work." The Rev. Robert D. Graham of the Tabernacle Baptist church, was appointed chairman for the month of March.

STRICKEN SUDDENLY AT HOME

MRS. JANE JONES FOUND UNCONSCIOUS ON FLOOR OF HER RESIDENCE. — DIED LITTLE LATER OF HEART PARALYSIS.

Alive and well yesterday afternoon Mrs. Jane Jones was a witness in a case at the court house. About 4 o'clock she was found lying unconscious on the floor of her home in the rear of 114 South Wahsatch avenue. She never regained consciousness and an hour and a half later died. Dr. J. A. Leech, who was summoned as soon as her condition was discovered, pronounced death to be due to paralysis of the heart.

Mrs. Jones was ill with the grippe last week, but recovered three or four days ago and yesterday afternoon was in good health. She had been at the court house and when she reached home she seemed to be in good health.

The dead woman is survived by a husband, John R. Jones, a carpenter, a son, Edgar P. Jones, who is organist for Pike's Peak camp No. 5, W. O. W., and two stepdaughters, Miss Sarah and Miss Nellie Jones. Funeral arrangements will be announced later. Mrs. Jones was 60 years old.

PERISOE IS BOUND OVER IN SUM OF $700

Louis Perisoe was taken before Justice Ruby yesterday to answer to a charge of issuing a fraudulent check. He was bound over to the district court in the sum of $700, and in default of bond was remanded to the custody of the sheriff. The check was drawn upon a Denver bank and was cashed by W. W. Wood, of the Rock Island railroad. The charge against Perisoe, of beating the Antlers hotel out of a board bill, was continued by the justice until March 7.

COMPLAINTS SWORN AGAINST FLANNIGAN

Ben Rosenberg and Alex Reibscheid, two merchants of Huerfano street, appeared before Justice Ruby yesterday and swore to complaints charging Albert Flannigan with passing fraudulent checks upon them. Each of the merchants cashed a check for $30 drawn upon the El Paso National bank and purporting to be signed by Fred Engel. Flannigan is in the county jail and the warrants will be served upon him today in these two cases. He was arrested by Sheriff O. P. Grimes Saturday, and he will probably be taken before the justice to plead some time today.

HEAVY SALES WITH FALLING PRICES

General Unloading of Stocks Late in the Day Brings an Unsettled Condition to the Market—Absorptive Power.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The bulky total of 2,000,000 shares reached by the business done at the stock exchange today witnessed the continuation of the speculative excitement and the widespread interest in the market. The day, however, was distinctly devoted to a process of digestion, and there were no such violent advances as were made last week. Very substantial progress was made, however, in realizing the profits caused by last week's advances.

During the prevalence of an active speculation and a long continued rise in prices Mondays are always chosen to effect a distribution of holdings and to convert paper profits into cash. The Sunday interval naturally leads to an accumulation of orders from outside sources in brokers' offices. The execution of these, offers good advantage to selling. Such a movement was clearly in progress today and though a check resulted to the rise in prices the absorptive power of the market was what was chiefly remarked.

The resistance to selling was not helped by any notable new development with the exception of the striking movement in Southern Pacific. The advance in this stock was explained in some quarters [illegible] recent advance in Union Pacific in which the subsidiary stock has not shared, but an additional motive for the buying was offered in the circulation of the rumor that a dividend payment on the stock had been practically determined upon. This rumor lacked official confirmation as did last week's many rumors of combinations but it was as little impaired in its influence on that account as were the previous stories. The rate of absorption in Southern Pacific in the first stakes of today's movement was unprecedented on the stock exchange, not less than 10,000 shares changing hands in a period of ten minutes during the period of greatest activity.

The great animation of the present market makes a striking contrast with the corresponding season of last year when the volume of dealings was dropping off day to day until on March 16 sales of less than 75,000 were recorded a low record for many years. Routine news of the day was little regarded, although it offered nothing to discourage the buying of stocks.

Railroad traffic officials reported progress making in the opening up of their lines all over the country after the storm blockade and the milder weather has resulted in largely increased offerings of grain from the primary points.

Foreign money centers reported a confident feeling in the future case of money and it is felt that supplies will be available from those sources for the New York market in case of any urgent demand. The persistence of the selling of stocks and the small response to the striking movement in Southern Pacific which rose to 72⅞, prompted a general unloading of stocks late in the day, which carried prices to the lowest level and made the closing considerably unsettled.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $5,870,000.

SENSATIONAL SLUMP TAKES PLACE IN WHEAT OPTION

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—A sensational slump of nearly four cents a bushel today apparently ended a huge deal in May wheat. The break was due to seeming abandonment of the deal. The market rallied considerably on covering by shorts but at the close May was still 1⅞@2 below Saturday's final quotations. July showed a net loss of ⅞. Corn closed strong with a gain of ¾@1 cent. Oats are up ¼. Provisions are 7½ to 12½ higher.

The break in wheat prices developed after trading was well under way. At the opening, quotations were about on a level with Saturday's closing figures, May being ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher at 1.18 to 1.18¼. July was ⅛@¼ lower to a shade higher. During the first hour there was nothing to indicate the approaching storm. On a fair demand from commission houses May sold up to 1.18⅜ and July to 1.01¼. Then, without warning the market started to tumble. Within a few minutes the price of May option was hammered down to 1.14⅝ a break of 3⅞ from the highest point of the day. July sold off to 99½.

Heavy liquidation by Wall Street speculators who are said to have been originally the possessors of a line of May wheat estimated in millions of bushels was the cause of the stampede. Indications that the May deal had been abandoned by the big holders started general selling throughout the pit. Stop loss orders heavily increased the selling pressure. Total sales of May wheat today by the eastern coterie are said to have aggregated 5,000,000 bushels. The decline was finally checked by liberal support from a strong bull trader, who bought persistently around what proved to be the low point of the day.

Other big houses also came to the support of the market. Shorts took advantage of the break and covered freely. The purchases affected a partial restoration of confidence and brought about a rally which landed the May price at 1.16⅝@⅞, the closing figure. July closed at 1.00⅜@⅞. The market in general was controlled almost entirely by the course of the May option.

In sharp contrast to the break in wheat, corn closed decidedly strong, almost at the highest point of the day. May opened a shade higher at 47⅛, sold between 47¼@⅜ and 48⅛@⅜ and closed at 48⅛.

Late strength of corn had a buoyant effect on the price of oats. The market closed firm. May opened a shade lower to a shade higher at 31 to 31⅛, sold between 30⅞ and 31¼ and closed at 31⅛@⅜.

Provisions were firm at the start, on fair demand from packers, but the break in wheat caused a reaction. The market, however, soon became firm again mainly as a result of the strength of corn. At the close May pork was up 10@12½ at 12.62½@12.65. Lard was up 10 at 7.02½, ribs were 7½ higher at 6.77½@6.80.

DUMP OF ANCHORIA LELAND

Two Outfits Are Working Constantly on This Great Pile of Rock.

BY CYANIDE PROCESS

THE DUMP IS ESTIMATED TO CONTAIN 100,000 TONS OF ORE THAT WILL AVERAGE $10 OR BETTER.

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 27.—Two immense ore outfits are working constantly, moving the old dump of the main Anchoria Leland shaft. The work is being pushed as fast as possible, the rock being hauled to the Midland Terminal railway. From this point it is billed to the Cripple Creek Cyanide company at Gillett. It is estimated by mining men that there is over 100,000 of rock all of which will average better than $10 to the ton.

The greater part of this dump was made in the early days of the camp when ore valued at $40 or less did not pay for shipping so it is readily seen that there are large quantities of good shipping grade ore in the heart of the dump. The Anchoria Leland company has during the past few years always kept this dump, which is known as the ore house dump, separated from the pile of waste rock that was being hoisted from the different workings of the mine while development work was in progress. So it is believed both by the company and others that a very handsome margin of profit will be secured [illegible].

On what basis the dump was secured by the present operators cannot be learned but from former deals it is readily conceded by many that it must have been very advantageous to the company.

LITTLE GIANT CYANIDE MILL

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 27.—The construction work of the new cyanide mill on the Little Giant company's property located in Pony gulch southwest of this city is being pushed along as fast as possible.

The buildings are nearing completion and the machinery will be put in place as soon as it arrives from the factories so it is only a question of two or three months now until the values that have always been thought to be beyond recovery will be saved or at least a practical test will be made which will show positively whether or not the rock carries enough values to pay for mining and treatment.

Sufficient work has already been performed sinking shafts, driving drifts and crosscuts to guarantee the company many thousands of tons of low grade ore and the officers of the company have no doubt in their own minds that the ore will readily yield its values to the cyanide process.

This mill in operation so far out of the producing area, if successful, will probably be the means of causing several others to start up in the same neighborhood, as in this immediate vicinity there are many thousands of acres of the same grade of rock.

ZOE ORE SHOOT IN THE MABEL M.

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 27.—Manager H. M. Gilbert of several leasing companies one of which is operating a part of the Mabel M property on Beacon hill has encountered the Zoe ore shoot at a depth of 500 feet.

From his assays in the last 48 hours, the ore will run between five and ten ounces to the ton and while development work so far has not revealed the full extent of the ore shoot yet it has opened up enough to make the strike one of the biggest for several months and if the present values and dimensions hold out, a fortune will soon be realized.

REVIVING SOME OLD COMPANIES

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 27.—Since the revival of the stock market many defunct companies are coming to life.

One of the latest to be revived is the old Antelope company whose holdings were recently secured by a new company known as the Calcite company, and the new organization is now asking the old stockholders to subscribe the sum of $5 per 1,000 shares which will then be changed for 1,000 shares of the new company.

Providing all the stockholders subscribe it will mean that a total sum of $5,000 would be brought to the new company. From a statement issued the old Antelope company claims to be in debt in the neighborhood of $1,900, with $150 in the treasury. What the balance of the $5,000 is to be used for is not mentioned. While numerous stockholders of the old company never knew that such conditions existed, the affairs of the company are now in such shape that it is up to the stockholders to either pay the $5 a thousand or lose everything.

COLORADO SPRINGS MEN WILL BOWL ON SATURDAY AND SUNDAY IN THE BIG TOURNAMENT AT DENVER.

Colorado Springs bowlers have been assigned Saturday and Sunday of this week in the schedule of the Post tournament, which begins on the Brunswick alleys in Denver at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. These are the last days of the tournament and give the Springs bowlers a better chance of landing within the money than they had in the Milwaukee-Overland tourney, where they were assigned the first three days.

With entries from 57 five-men teams, 76 two-men, and 152 individuals, this tournament promises to be one of the biggest events of the year in Colorado bowling circles. Entries have been received from Denver, Golden, Fort Collins, Greeley, Central City, Boulder, Victor and Colorado Springs. This city will be represented by three five-men, three two-men and ten individuals, in addition to the Sam Baer team which is made up of Denver, Pueblo and Colorado Springs bowlers.

[illegible] SCHEDULE [illegible] AN EXPERT [illegible] BURNS CASE

The plaintiff in the case of John D. O'Haire vs. James F. Burns perfected his appeal to the court of appeals Saturday when his attorney, Scott Ashton, filed papers alleging eleven assignments of error.

On March 1, 1904, Judge W. E. Seeds entered an order making permanent the injunction granted against J. D. O'Haire, restraining him from prosecuting an action against Burns in the Iowa courts and filing other suits against the defendant. The court, however, granted the plaintiff the right of appeal to a higher court, and it is this appeal which has now been perfected. The case has been pending in the courts in one form or another since January, 1894.

[illegible] SCHEDULE [illegible] UNBALANCED

The parents of Albert Flannigan, the young man arrested upon a charge of forging and cashing four checks alleged to bear the name of Fred Engel, have presented the case to the attention of Dr. H. L. Richardson with the request that an inquest in lunacy be held.

The parents say that the young man is mentally unbalanced and should be placed under restraint instead of being sent to trial in the district court with a possibility of a term in the state penitentiary. Dr. Richardson is considering the matter and it is probable that he will present the case to the probate court some time today.

In the meantime a warrant has been issued by Justice McClelland for the arrest of young Flannigan and he may be taken before the justice court for hearing upon the forgery case.

[illegible] PLAYERS [illegible] AS WANT

President R. E. Burke of the Denver baseball club has received the contract of Roy Hartzell, third baseman. With Manager Everitt for the initial sack, Perrine for second and Hartzell for third, the Denver management has already received contracts completing its infield for the coming season. Catcher Lucia is the fourth member of the team already signed, and the others will fall in line within the next week.

Bill Everitt spent the greater portion of Saturday in Denver. Everitt has been making weekly trips to Denver from his ranch all winter. With the approach of the practice season Bill will be seen in Denver more frequently. Saturday he had a long talk with Tim Flood, who returns to Los Angeles this week to prepare his team for the early opening of the coast season.

Pop Eyler, Ed Webster, Charlie Jones and Billy McCausland held a fanning bee the other day. Pop declared that he was willing to go to St. Joseph, where he had been traded with Braun and Ketchaim, in exchange for Outfielder Belden. Pop says all he wants is a fair consideration for his services from President Chamberlain of St. Joseph. Eyler says he likes the makeup of the reorganized St. Joseph team and believes that he can do himself justice in his new birth.

BERNARD BUYS A $5,000 MARE

S. S. Bernard recently purchased a fine trotting mare in California and the blooded animal will arrive in Colorado Springs in a few days. Mr. Bernard telegraphed the purchase price, which was about $5,000, three days ago and sent Joe McGuire, the well known Denver horseman after the mare. Mr. Bernard's new purchase will undoubtedly be one of the finest pieces of horse flesh in the Springs and she will be entered in the Rocky Mountain circuit this summer and fall.
